About KIMOCON (1062 Zeichen)

KIMOCON is a platform for future living. The company's philosophy incorporates the entire living space. Whether the ergonomic and connected kitchen, or bathroom and bedroom. All living areas should be merged spatially and functionally. KIMOCON combines aesthetics and technology, so that people not only have a nice place to live in, but are also enabled to live independently for longer in their own four walls. KIMOCON pays particular attention to sustainability – both in terms of the easy set-up and operation of the “Smart Home” equipment on site as well as in terms of the selected materials.

From the industry for the industry – after several years of working in the kitchen industry Christian Hartmannsgruber and Hansjörg Rollshausen founded KIMOCON. A company that thrives to make lives smarter. The managing directors are leading innovators with expertise and passion for all things “smart”. Together with an experienced and well-rehearsed team, they continuously work on their vision to improve the everyday lives of people with smart home technologies.
